Golden Altar: I know, I've seen you somewhere before back in another life you came to me what did we explore? The love in your eyes it speaks to me through the golden altar. What are the ties? I want to see through the golden altar. There is another we sing through the night voices clear and light we're so close to each other. The love in your eyes it speaks to me through the golden altar. What are the ties? I want to see through the golden altar. What can I say? I love him more than words can say He's on my train! travel with him You can't setal my heart this lesson brought me closer to what is real inside travel with me travel with you • Fly: There is a rainbow I saw it yesterday above high spirits beneath the sun I saw the birds fly and they were calling me. oh can't you see there's a way to be free with open eyes all the people can fly. This world of darkness and painful tragedy many times you scrape your knees you're bleeding again caught in a circle moon swept desires into the closet under the carpet over the edge grip onto the ledge inch your way up to the colors of the rainbow. aah afraid to be taken aah where there's mountains and curves aah porcupines dandelions oh cant you see there's a way to be free with open eyes all the people can fly can fly won't you fly? • Fiery Eyes: They penetrate your body like glass they see you clearly they live in a wonderland where dreams are rich and pure darting to the sky look around and see a mystic potion stands before the altar you want to take a drink your lips are dry and yet you ponder frightened of the danger you could find. Its those fiery eyes in an instant glance they read your mind fiery eyes through the flame they see all that is you those fiery eyes passion embraces the one they desire. The candlelight was broken and though no words were spoken you could see flaming anger reflect moons of emotion darting to the sky look around a pretty painter drawing through those eyes she says "If the secret of the picture is revealed, danger will arise" From sea to sea they hypnotize they always speak your eyes • Overboard: this situation leads her to a dark alley her fingers grasp the iron pale and she's trembling overboard reaching out tidal wave undertow overboard reaching out tidal wave coming out She turns her back to the alley shivers at the thought of her own reality quickens her pace running from her tracks this mystery her own creation overboard reaching out tidal wave undertow overboard reaching out tidal wave coming out Right to the core she feels her part a victim in crime when you steal her heart stay away when you find her overboard • Blood Ties: When we were young we had good times through the years we drifted apart but I know that we will find all the pieces that shattered to the ground I know you love me we have blood ties but we're so far apart will you trust me? I'm doing just fine open up your heart. I have sought what I have found No-one can tell me what to believe standing from afar you're not inside You've never really known me I know you love me we have blood ties but we're so far apart will you trust me? I'm doing just fine open up your heart We've been close together won't you realize freedom is what i;m after i'm looking inside for some piece of mind • One Step Closer: When my spirits are low and sadness overcomes me you lift up my heart when the obstacles arise and heaviness frustrates me you lift up my heart like frozen winter melts into spring you affect every part of me but now i've come to realize i need to look inside. How do I feel? Why do I need to fly to a distant land? In the darkest of night alone with myself you know it doesn't seem right like frozen winter melts into spring the clouds will soon break to be...one step closer to the light the moon the sun unite one step closer to the light the moon the sun unite Take me closer to the sunlight I don't mind if i stumble and fall if i will learn to release my soul the tide is breaking...one step closer to the light the moon the sun unite one step closer to the light the moon the sun unite
